Northcutt Residential Treatment Center for Boys

Residential Treatment Services

Northcutt Residential Treatment Center provides a safe, healing environment for elementary school boys, ages 5-12, who are victims of trauma.

These children have experienced physical, sexual, and emotional abuse. As a result of their trauma history, they engage in high-risk behaviors, self-harm, aggressive, defiant, or oppositional behaviors. They exhibit symptoms of anxiety and depression. Without treatment these children are at risk of growing up to experience significant health and mental health effects later in life.

At Northcutt we take a multi-disciplinary, individualized approach to teach, encourage and support each boy's healing process to a new way of life. After an initial assessment, an individual treatment plan is developed, forming the foundation for each boy's care at Northcutt. By using trauma-informed care—a nationally recognized philosophy of care proven to lead to positive outcomes for victims of trauma—we can provide the assistance these boys need. Services include therapy, socialization and recreation, on-site educational services and healthcare.

The average length of stay at Northcutt is six months. However, each boy's time at Northcutt is determined by his personal progress toward his treatment goals.
